Currently living in Brussels, I got a master degree in Graphic communication from the national school of art of La Cambre since 2016. These years of studying have allowed me to improve my own reflexion and vision of graphic design. It also gave me the chance to meet many inspiring fellow professionals who have fueled my passion for this trade. I am particularly attracted by branding, as I enjoy telling stories through visuals and being the mediator between the brand and its public. I am also very interested of exploring further new communication medias and digital strategies. I deeply believe in the fact that design, in its globality, helps to feel & live better when it's well used. Currently working as a freelancer, I am looking to join a professional team to commit to an agency and represent it with passion, curiosity and motivation.
